

Subject: Want to feel like a kid again? Teach your son it means something to be a man?

Thank you for listening to me, I will make this brief.

There's an incredible feeling we get as men when we show a younger guy how to do something and he learns, and loves us for it.

Imagine now that we can do that for an entire weekend and have an incredible amount of fun doing it. Do you remember how good it feels to see your boy have so much fun it's like he's high on life?

For 20 years there has been a massive campout for Fathers and Sons called

Men and Lads Event

I won't tell you too much because the links below explain more. I will tell you that I have been involved in it for a few years, and it rocks. Kids bug their dads all year to go back to it, and can't wait to explain to mom all the things they did.

Men like me bring boys that aren't even mine, it happens all the time.

This event is about teaching kids that older men are there to mentor them, they should be seeking our help through life and that there really is something to learn about being a man.

Despite what t.v. tells us.

Let's have some fun, lets go together, come with me.

It will feel good, and bring you closer to your boy.
